

Window Shopping at Anthropologie, H Square

Kudos to the display team at the new Anthropologie shop in Harvard Square—their store windows are works of art that absolutely drew me into the store—although I really don't need a thing.

Anthropologie, located at 48 Brattle St, in Cambridge, has taken over the old Design Research building—which has been almost empty for over a year since Crate and Barrel moved out.

The new store carries an enticing array of clothing, jewelry, shoes, boots, bags and home goods. Most items are a bit ornate for my tastes but definitely worth a visit if only to see the store's artistic and creative arrangements of merchandise.

—Anita M. Harris

New Cambridge Observer is a publication of the Harris Communications Group of Cambridge, MA. We also publish HarrisCom Blog.