

Cambridge Local Unions Protest With Huge Inflated Rat

Local AFL-CIO Insulators, Tin Kinockers and Pipefitters from Cambridge Local use a large inflatable rat to make clear how they feel about the use of non-union, non-Cambridge workers by PH Mechanical for work currently underway at 302 Third Street in Kendall Square. "They don't conform to community standards; they are unlicensed, and they have no apprentice program," said one union member who declined to give his name. He said he expects that Cambridge City Council will be discussing the issue at its next meeting, possibly this evening.
