

Opera Review: Standing Ovation for Lowell House's Otello

I never thought I was in Venice or at the Met, but the vibrancy and professionalism of the production and the performers far surpassed what I'd expected to hear—especially in a college dining hall.