

Review: Boston ICA Draw/Dance Transforms Ways of Seeing, Being

Cambridge writer Anita Harris finds Boston ICA's Draw Dance show transformative.

Filmmaker uses novel site to fundraise for doc on Boston 60s WBCN rock politics radio

Boston filmmaker Bill Lichtenstein is seeking $104K to fund documentary "The American Revolution" about 60s Boston radio station WBCN. "We changed the world once and we can do it again," he says.

Cambridge collaboration to inaugurate entrepreneurship "Walk of Fame" on Friday

9/18/11

At 1PM, collaborators from MIT, CIC, the Marion Ewing Kauffman Foundation for Entrepreneurship, several venture funds, the City of Cambridge, Ernst & Young and others will inaugurate the world's first "Walk of Fame" for entrepreneurs . The event, open to the public, will be held at the Kendall Square T stop in front of the Marriott Hotel's newly redesigned plaza.

Artists El Anatsui and Chihuly Bring Glass, Wood, Color, Imagination to Life

Artists Chihuly and El Anatsui bring to life beautiful worlds based on imagination and the seemingly-mundane.

Cambridge Grade School Students to present funds & artwork to Japan Consulate

6-15-11

King School Chinese Immersion Coordinator Vivian Tam explains, "Our schools' global perspectives have brought many innovative learning opportunities to the students. Through our school-wide Mandarin Chinese programs, students are immersed in the languages and cultures of Asian countries. Students have raised funds for the Sichuan Earthquake disaster relief in 2009 and when the earthquake and nuclear exposure happened in Japan, our students decided to reach out."