

BIO issues glowing report on US Bioscience Industry

At its International Convention held this week in Boston, the Biotechnology Innovation Organization (BIO) issued a glowing report on the State of the US Bioscience Industry.

BIO-IT World 2018 awards top innovators at Boston Conference-Expo

Cambridge science writer Anita Harris reports on award-winning technologies she came upon at the 2018 BIO-IT World Conference and Expo, held May 15-17 in Boston.

Concord's new Lacoste-Keane gallery plans global presence; features clay sculptor Jeff Shapiro

Concord's lacoste gallery becomes Lacoste Keane; to focus on contemporary ceramic art, as announced at opening of Jeff Shapiro solo show.

Can Digital Innovation Transform Health Care? Part III: Apps, Devices & Roadblocks

In her final report in a three-part series, writer Anita Harris reports on digital innovations aimed at improving behavioral and population health through new models for insurance and state systems. She also discusses roadblocks to change.

Art collector to share his vision at Lacoste starting Feb 3, 2018, Concord, MA

Cambridge writer, photographer, consultant and art lover Anita Harris plans to attend the opening of "Through the Eyes of a Collector," at the Lacoste Gallery, in Concord, Ma. The exhibit offers an insight into the art collecting practices of Steve Alpert, an avid ceramic art lover and collector who has been a board member of MFA Boston, Chairman of the Board of the Institute for Contemporary Art, Chair of the Rose Art Museum at Brandeis University.