

Lincoln MA, Reading: Ithaca Diaries

Last night's reading in Lincoln went well. People laughed. In the right places.

That's Neil O'Hara, facilitator of The Write Stuff, my wonderful writers group, in the background. The reading was held in the beautiful Lincoln, MA, public library, which along with the Lincoln Review, sponsors our group and the occasional public event.

Other readers included Susan Coppack, Mary Ann Hales, Ellen Morgan and Manson Solomon. Here's a link to the Write Stuff Blog, <http://lincolnwritestuff.blogspot.com/> which, in turn, links to this and other write stuffers' blogs, courtesy of blogmeister Geoff Moore.

Mark S. Hoffman took the photo. Thanks, Mark!

New Cambridge Observer is a publication of the Harris Communications Group of Cambridge, MA. We also publish Harriscomblog and Ithaca Diaries blog.