

Photographer/ceramicist Isaac Scott enlightens and enriches modern understanding of the slave trade

Through his art, photographer/ceramicist Isaac Scott tells the story of the slave trade responsible for bringing his ancestors to the US.

To Mask or Not to Mask? That is the Question

After a three-week bout with Covid, Anita M. Harris is concerned about the lack of clarity on how to combat the wily virus.

Cambridge Author Anita Harris Addresses Cornell Reunion Class

Sometimes, I call Ithaca Diaries “Gidget Goes to the Revolution” which, in a way, sums up my college experiences in the late 1960s, But 51 years later, I thought it would be important to reflect on the past as it relates to the present and future. Here's a link to the video; the script, which I did not follow exactly, is inserted below.

Take me out to the [post covid shot] ball game!

Writer Anita Harris gets shot(s) at Fenway Park.

Paul Briggs Ceramics: Bars, Chains, and Free Spirit

Writer Anita Harris found Paul Briggs' prison cell series—inspired by written words— both difficult and uplifting.