Do authors need Websites? Yes…but!

Ithaca Diaries author and communications consultant Anita Harris writes that authors should have websites—but building and getting people to them can be challenging.