

Healthbox expands to Cambridge; $50K health tech startup competition deadline is June 24.

Healthbox has launched a competition in which up to 10 New England-based companies will be selected to receive $50,000 in seed funding, collaborative workspace, access to a mentor network and strategic guidance in three-month program to start in August. The application deadline is June 24.

Newsrooms Must Adopt “Innovation Culture” To Survive, Google Exec says

Cambridge writer Anita Harris reports on Google News Exec’s advice to newspaper industry at Nieman Foundation, May 11, 2012

Dance Review: Alvin Ailey in Boston: Stunning Integration of Past, Present, Future.

Anita Harris, New Cambridge Observer, reviews Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater performance of April 28, 2012.

Downturn + changing VC industry = funding challenges for startups

The economic recession of 2008 has led to soul-searching and innovation in the venture capital industry – to challenges for startups seeking funding, Boston VCs report .

Bio-IT World Review: BIG Data; BIG Promise; BIG CHALLENGES.

New Cambridge Observer's Anita Harris on BIO-IT World 2012, describing the promise and problems presented by burgeoning of health care data.