

Abstract Implosionism, Cerealism photos at Davis Orton Gallery, in Hudson, NY

It's an unusual and fun show, great in combination, not to be missed if you're in the Hudson Valley.

Eat, Love and Pray you don't have to see it again

My mom, who is getting a bit forgetful, told me that if she forgot the title and went to see it again I have her permission to put her in a home.

Mao's Last
Dancer—breathhtakingly beautiful

Mao's Last Dancer is so moving that I even teared up at times. I'd give it 3 and 3/4 stars—and a great recommendation for anyone who likes dance and US patriotism.

---

Whale of an Exhibit at Williams College Museum

I love the Williams College Museum of Art. Yesterday, Sara and I drove over from Albany—and found one wonderful surprise after another.

---

In and Out: Chakaia Booker—untiring at the DeCordova

At first, I was put off by Booker's big black rubber sculptures—but once I understood more about them, was mesmerized by the beauty of their patterns, and the messages they convey.